

HISTORY

WHY HISTORY?

- Transferable Skills and Career
- Joint Honours / Combined Courses
- Relevant and Interesting Content
- Highly Regarded Course
- Independent Study and Reading

WHERE TO STUDY HISTORY?

UK MAP

WHERE TO STUDY HISTORY?

UK or abroad?

University Town?

Campus

UK City?

London?

WHERE TO STUDY HISTORY?

Selective universities – interviews at eg Oxbridge

WHAT DO YOU NEED TO STUDY HISTORY?

Grades, yes

Interest

Desire to read & study

Half an eye on career

Blenheim History

Society

CALLING ALL LOWER SIXTH
HISTORIANS

Wednesday Period 7, Room 8

If you might like to study History or a related subject at Uni, come along!

HOW DO I 'GET IN' TO STUDY HISTORY?

Your application is won and lost in the summer

YOUR UCAS STATEMENT

- 4000 characters / 800 words
- Being a 'good egg' is important
- But you need to evidence of an interest in History.
- What will you include?

YOUR UCAS STATEMENT: SHOWING GENUINE INTEREST

- Rule of Three
- Watched the 1993 Film Stalingrad, listened to Rest is History Podcast, read Life and Fate by Vasily Grossman

MAKING THE MOST OF EXAMPLES

Make the most of your examples

- If you have an example of an essay prize entry include:

The competition name, essay title, a summation of your argument. Demonstrate your research skills and use of sources. Note any key debates you engaged with

1. University of Aberdeen: The University of Aberdeen may accept applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history courses.
2. University of Birmingham: The University of Birmingham might consider applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for admission to their history programs.
3. University of Bristol: The University of Bristol could accept students with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history courses.
4. University of Dundee: The University of Dundee may consider applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for admission to their history programs.
5. University of East Anglia: The University of East Anglia might accept students with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history courses.
6. University of Essex: The University of Essex may accept applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history programs.
7. University of Glasgow: The University of Glasgow could consider students with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history courses.
8. University of Leeds: The University of Leeds may accept applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history programs.
9. University of Leicester: The University of Leicester might consider students with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history courses.
10. University of St Andrews: The University of St Andrews could accept applicants with one A and two B grades at A-level for their history programs.

11. University of Leeds - The University of Leeds is known for its strong History department and may consider applicants with a mix of grades.
12. University of Liverpool - The University of Liverpool has a reputable History program and may accept students with varied grades.
13. University of Leicester - Leicester's History department has a diverse student body, and they may consider applicants with a range of grades.
14. University of Essex - Essex is known for its interdisciplinary approach to History, and they may be open to students with a mix of grades.
15. University of Portsmouth - Portsmouth offers a variety of history courses and might consider applicants with a mix of grades.
16. University of Sunderland - Sunderland is known for its supportive environment, and they may consider applicants with varied grades.
17. University of Bedfordshire - Bedfordshire may accept students with a mix of grades for its History program.
18. University of Bolton - Bolton's History department may be open to applicants with diverse academic backgrounds.
19. University of the Highlands and Islands - UHI offers flexible learning options and may consider applicants with a range of grades.
20. London Metropolitan University - London Met has a diverse student body, and their History department may consider applicants with varied grades.